RANKIN A WINNER

The Democrats Carried the South and West Wards.

NORTH IS REPUBLICAN

Beezer in the South and Judge in the West Elected to the Borough Council Makes it Democratic.

ONLY 750 VOTES CAST IN THE BORO.

The election is all over like a horse race and all along the streete and in the pool rooms, cigar stores and hotels, are groups of men telling how it happened. The fact of the matter none of them knew how things were going to pan out until after every vote had been counted. The day was anything but pleasant and the persons who did not have to go out of their homes remained where it was warm and pleasant, for that reason only 750 votes were cast in the three wards. The bloody South leading with 306.

The truth of the matter both parties are claiming victories. The Republicans in the borough elected Mr. Rankin Treasurer and Mr. Hicklen, Auditor. While the Democrats carried off the honors of electing Mr. Howley as Overseer of the poor.

The West ward which has always been from 10 to 15 Republican majority went Democratic this time, and elected Mr. Judge councilman, Mr. McQuistian assessor, Mr. Barnhart school director. The old North ward which is a stand by to the Republican party and principals, swung in her large mojority and elected every man on the Republican ticket and saved the borough treasurer from going over to the Democratic party.

In the South ward Mr. Rankin received fifteen of a majority over Mr. Speer which is considered a compliment from the Democrats.

They did slaughter Mr. Seibert the Republican candidate for councilmen. Mr. Beezer was elected over him with a majority of 45.

Mr. Howley who was elected Overseer of the Poor had a majority of 180 over Mr. Knisely, the Republican candidate. Mr. Howley has been the borough Overseer of the Poor for several years past and no fault was ever found with his services.

The total vote of the borough was as follows:

Borough Treasurer.

W. B. Rankin	406
W. T. Speer	317
Rankins majority	89

Overseer of the poor.

Thomas Howley	454
Hunter Knisely	274
Howley's majority	180

Auditor.

C. K. Hicklen	394
Thomas S. Sexton	322
Hicklen's majority	72

ANDREW JACKSON GRIEST DEAD.

Passed Away at his Home in Unionville Thursday Morning.

Thursday shortly after eight o'clock the life of Andrew Jackson Griest passed into that great beyond. He has been a sufferer for several months, having had a fall early in the winter that compelled him to take his bed and from that time on he has been gradually growing worse until death ended the struggle this morning.

Mr. Griest was a great home man, he loved to be associated with his family and his sole pleasure was to bestow happiness among those he was fond of. He was a staunch democrat and was elected County Commissioner in November 1881 and served in that capacity for 6 years and during his administration he performed his duties in an honest and faithful manner.

Mr. Griest was of a Quaker decent but with his good wife joined the Presbyterian church of Unionville of which he was a trustee. He was a charter member of the Lumen Lodge No. 639 of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Unionville.

Andrew Jackson Griest was a native of Dauphin County and was born in Harrisburg, January 19th 1837 where his parents, Mahlon and Mary A. Griest then resided.

His mothers maiden name was Paulding, from Franklin county. Shortly after Mr. Griest was born they removed to Latimore township, Adams county. In April 1856 they removed to Centre county.

The accestor of Mr. Griest, John Griest emigranted from England in 1712 and settled near Wilmington Delaware, and in 1744 moved to York County, and settled on the banks of the Bermudian in what is now the north east corner of Adams County.

Mr. Griest was married Nov. 26th 1861 to Miss S. M. Catherman of Union County and has been engaged in the mercantile business since 1870 at Union vill. He leaves to mourn his death a loving wife, three sons and two daughters namely: Edward, of Philipsburg; Charles R., of Barnesboro; Harry of Mt. Union Mary E. and Gertrude of Unionville.

The funeral occurred Saturday at 2 o'clock. The services were in charge of Rev. Miller, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Philipsburg. At the grave the services were conducted by the Odd Fellows. Interment were made at Unionville.

They Will have to Get a Move On.

We always had, have now, and always will have a warm feeling in our heart for Company B, and it is our greatest desire to see the boys head the list when the Inspection officer sends in his report to the Adjutant General and he shall see that the company from Bellefonte is stil holding her old place.

At one time not over four years ago company B of the 5th Regiment with another company in the western part of the state stood on a par and shared the honors of being the best companies in the National Guard of Pennsylvania. Taylor had a hold of the company then and his every command was strictly obeyed and carried out.

The preliminary inspection Friday night showed the company to be deficient in a great many ways. Their general appearance, squad and plattoon movements and guard mount all of these can be done better.

And must be greatly improved on before Major Jefferies gets a hold of them. Spruce up boys, we don't know what the inspecting officers reported but we do know that it is necessary for you to get down to good solid work for two weeks in order to make a respectable showing before Jefferies.

The annual inspection will be held on Wednesday evening February 27, 1907.

A Faithful Servant.

For over 38 years James Rickard of Lock Haven, has been connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. When he was a young man 20 years of age he secured a position as a carpenter with this company and is a foreman of one of the crews today. He has labored faithfully and honestly always at his post of duty and the company realizes that he is competent and efficfent in this department of their work. Mr. Richard is well known in Bellefonte and has relatives here. He is known among the railroad men as a pleasant congenial, honest and sober man. He is 58 years old and has reared a family of children who are a credit to his home and city. Jim we wish you a long successful life.

DON'T WANT BLOOD MONEY

Prefer to Pay More to Keep a Man than to Pay for Him Dead.

BIG JUMP IN WAGES

Company Increased their Employees Wages Twelve and a Half per Cent.

FEAR IGNORANCE AND GREEDINESS.

Connellsville, Pa., February 18.—In an advance of wages announced by the H. C. Frick Coke company, the pay of laboring men has been placed on a scale never before equalled in the industrial history of the country. The miners and the coke workers of the coke region after March 1 will receive better pay for their services than the average bookkeeper or high class clerks. The laborers will be paid equally as well as the average skilled mechanic.

Twelve and one-half per cent on a wage scale that was high is the advance announced by the Frick company.

The increase was entirely voluntary. It came unsolicited. No labor union has been in existence in the coke region for fifteen years. The new scale is higher than that of 1903, which until the present time, held the record. The advance amounts in actual pay on an average of fifteen to twenty dollars a month. All classes of labor from the superintendent to the ditch diggers are affected.

Every other coke plant in the Connellsville region, the lower Connellsville district and the Latrobe field will follow the advance announced by the Frick company. More than 5000 men will be benefitted. For mining, $1 35 a hundred bushels will be paid for room coal, $1.50 for heading coal and $1.60 for wet heading coal.

Academy's Great Victory.

The Bellefonte Academy boys went into the basket ball game with such a spirit and dash on Saturday night that they fairly swamped the Lock Haven High School defeating them by 29 goal to four field goals and two fouls or by 58 points to 10, the largest score yet made this season in Bellefonte. Every Academy boy played right up to scratch and scored baskets for his team. Captain Dunsmore continued his splendid record by throwing fifteen goals, Oberlin, Mitchell and Colestock each threw three goals, while Irwin and Meyer threw two each and Heiner one. The Academy boys got together from the first blow of the whistle and showed what team work would accomplish.

The lineup.

Lock Haven		Bellefonte
Smith	Forward	Heiner, Colestock
Peck (capt)	"	Meyer, McCaslin Irwin
Fatersen	centre	Dunsmore (capt)
Bowe, Ungard	guard	Oberlin
Calaster	"	Mitchell

Referee, Godfrey; field goals, Irwin 2, Oberlin 3, Colestock 3, Dunsmore 15, Mitchell 3, Heiner 1, Myers 2, Peck 2, Ungard 1, Smith 1. Score—Bellefonte 58 Lock Haven 10.

A Scrap in the Baggage Car.

Thursday morning when the Lewisburg passenger rolled into Bellefonte Jack Dawson and Bob Moyer had some words that resulted in them taking hold of one another, and for a few minutes it sounded as though two lyons had been set loose. Of course it only lasted a short time as some of the boys jumped in and parted them, no blhod was shed, but my oh my the bad words they said and the ugiy looks they had on their faces was enough to frighten a wild Indian.

10 20 and 30 cent Show Coming.

The Herald Square Stock Co. reputed to be the largest and best popular priced organization in the world to-day will begin a week's engagement at the Garman Opera House Monday February 25th, presenting for the first time at popular prices the big scenic drama, "Man To Man". 10, 20 and 30 cents.

QUIET COUNCIL MEETING.

All the Business of Past two Weeks Attended to in an Hour.

The regular semi-monthly session of the borough council was held Monday evening at 7:30 with the following members present. Wagner, Shuey, Seibret, Brown, Keichline, Hamilton. In the absence of President Keller, Mr Wagner was elected president pro tem.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the clerk, Mr Kelly and there being no corrections they stood approved.

Mr. Sidney Keifer on behalf of the American Lime and Stone Company asked for a rebate in the Water tax assessed against the Brick Row owing to a leakage at the meter. The leak was during the quarter from July 1st to Oct. 1st, 1907. It was referred to the Water committee for investigation and report. At this juncture President Keller entered and assumed the chair.

S. B. Miller asked that Curtin street be vacated from Armor street to Wilson street, and Wilson street from Curtin to Church alley. It is of no advantage to the public at present. There are no houses on these streets and no one would be inconvenianced so Mr. Miller said.

The Water committee reported repairing water meter at the Daily News office.

The Fire and Police committee recommended the purchase of a dozen charges for the fire extinguishers on the Hook and Ladder truck at the Logan Hose House They were ordered to be bought.

The request of S. B. Miller was referred to the Street committee to investigate in conjunction with the boro solicitor.

The Electric Light Company sent their check for $8 00 being in full for the bill ordered sent them for turning off the lights on two nights. Councilman Brown was in favor of returning the check to the company as he thought the charge an unjust one. The balance of the council however did not agree with him.

Council adjourned to meet again Monday morning March 4th at 10 o'clock.

The following bills were approved and orders drawn:

Street Pay Roll	$28 61
Police Pay Roll	50 00
P. B. Crider	6 87
A. Allison	4 18
A. Baum	20 00
J. T. Mitchell	25 00
Water Works Pay Roll	58 00
G M Malory	1 50
A. Allison	14 68
	$208.84

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

For the benefit of a large number of people who were unable to attend the Glee Club's concert in Petrkin Hall last week, "The Lawn Party" will be repeated on Tuesday March 5th in the same place, with some changes in the program. Our town is ever ready to encourage worthy organizations, and as a Glee Club is an unusual thing in a place of the size of Bellefonte, let us give it our hearty support.

The Blue and the Red of the men's membership contest and Orange and Purple of the boy's department, were present in full force at an oyster supper which was served at the Y. M. C. A., building Monday evening. Each of the four teams is doing good work so a hot finish is in prospect. At present Red leads the Blues by the score 60 to 50 and Orange leads the Purple by the score 21 to 7½.

A Very Pleasant Sleighride.

Friday afternoon a crowd of Academy girls started in a bob, drawn by four horses to the Country Club House at Hecla Park. They left here at four o'clock and returned at eleven. The members of the party were, Marion Lingle, Lucretia Williams, Emily Bassett, Margaret Wisner, Anne Lyon, Jane Scott, Sarah Hastings, Grace Cook, Janet Potter, Ellen Hayes and Virginia Dale, and the two chaperones, Mrs. J. Lingle and Miss Emma Montgomery. They enjoyed an excellent chicken and waffle supper and after this repast they spent the evening with dancing singing and playing games.

Bellefonte After It.

According to the Bellefonte Daily News the National Cash Register company of Dayton, Ohio, wants to locate in that town. Every inducement should be offered by the people of Bellefonte, for this is one of the greatest industries in America, employing mostly skilled mechanics.—Lock Haven Express.

TWENTY DEAD 145 INJURED

Passengers In Electric Express Hurled to Awful Fate.

INQUIRY UNDER WAY.

Train Running Seventy Miles an Hour Derailed and Dragged an Eighth of a Mile, With the Victims Beneath It.

FIFTY IN A SERIOUS CONDITION.

New York, February 17th.—Twenty dead, two fatally hurt, and 145 others more or less seriously injured, is the result of the wreak of an electric express train, on the New York Central railroad at 205th street, and Webster avenue last night. Of the large number of injured, fifty are, according to hospital and police reports, seriously hurt.

Most of the others are suffering from lacerations or shock, and will recover.

The cause of the accident is still a matter of speculation. All night Inspector Flood, of the Police Department, Coroner Schwannecke and Assistant District Attorney Smythe, together with the other members of the District Attorney,s force looked over the scene and sought to determine the cause of the derailment of the train. The result of their investigation may become known when the inquest is held tomorrow.

I. O. O. F. Notes.

Last Friday evening quite a large delegation from Millheim lodge and several members from Rebersburg lodge visited Spring Mills lodge and took in second degree, which was conferred by the Spring Mills lodge team upon several candidates. Millheim lodge also brought with them a candidate entitled to second degree and asked Spring Mills lodge to confer said degree, which they did. After the degree work Spring Mills lodge treated all to a lunch of ham sandwiches, cakes and coffee in which over sixty members of the order participated. It was near the midnight hour when the visitors left for their homes, after having expressed their wellwishes and assured Spring Mills lodge that the event was surely a pleasurable one to them.

Spring Mills lodge is rapidly forging to the front. They are receiving a great many applications for memberships from the best citizens of the different communities and the prospects for still further increased is very much in evidence. They have one of the best trained and equipped teams for degree work in the county and lodge has in it a great many of the most earnest workers. The lodge is not yet four years established and a membership within a few of the three-quarter hundred mark.

Consigned to the Tomb.

On Thureday afternoon all that was mortal of Henry Sampsell was consigned to the tomb.

The services were held at 1:30 at his late home on Allegheny street. Many of his old friends from all over the county were in attendance which showed the respect and esteem that this good old gentleman was held in. The services were conducted by Rev. James Stein of the Methodist Episcopal church of Bellefonte. The singing was very impressive and rendered by a quartette composed of Mrs. Dunning, C. C. Shuey, Abram Lukenbach and L. A. Shaeffer. The casket bearers were his five sons and one son-in-law, namely W. H. Sampsell, J. C. Sampsell, Boyd A. Sampsell, H. A. Sampsell, Charles Sampsell and W. K. Albright. Interment was made at Pleasant Gap.

Salvation Army V. S. Coleville Band.

On Saturday evening the Salvation Army always holds an open air meeting in front of the bar room at the Bush House, and on Saturday they took their usual stand, when the Coleville band across the street began playing their melodious music. It was a nip and tuck as to which organization would out do the other. But the band boys soon got tired and went up to the Diamond where they played without being disturbed. Boys you have to get up in the morning to make more noise than the Army band.

GREAT DISPLAY OF POST CARDS.

George T. Bush Know as the Post Card King.

Quite a mercantile industry has been quietly built up in our town in the extensive Post Card business of our young merchant Geo. T. Bush aptly styled by letters he has received addressed to him as the "Post Card King." His reputation extends all over the state especially among the travelling men as having the largest variety of Post Cards in the state they numbering over seven thousand.

Mr. Bush has had published of Bellefonte and vicinity alone over fifty thousand post cards an enormous number for a town of this size and which certainly helps to advertise the town, hundreds going to all parts of the world nearly everyday. There are now about forty published varieties covering town and county with more being added right along, as well as about 50 photographic view post cards in addition. Mr. Bush has a stock on hand of nearly seventy thousand cards, ten thousands of them being leather cards alone, which are now so extensively used for making pillow tops and table covers.

Quite a wholesale business is done within a small radius of the surrounding towns. He is now getting published a series of college and school pennants and yell cards for all over the state which promises to become quite a success, he already having cards in both board and leather for the High School, Academy and State College for the school colors.

Mr. Bush has counter racks alone in the store that expose the face of 1700 different cards and has cards on sale that run in price as high as 25 cents each. He tells us the business in this country now as large and extensive as it seems is only in its infancy as yet being of smaller extent now in this country than it was in 1900 in Continental Europe which he visited at that time and observed the extent of the industry over there at that time. The idea originated between some artists in Vienna forty years ago who drew sketches on cards and mailed to friends and from that small beginning has grown to a business that more than a billion cards are now made yearly.

Celebrated 25th Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Irvin celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage last Saturday, at their home at Baileyville, Spruce Creek valley. It was a large, happy company, numbering about seventy-five which came from Altoona, Tyrone, Bellefonte, State College, Lemont, Pine Grove, Spruce Creek, and Warriorsmark valleys, and gathered at their spacious country home about eleven o'clock. There were four generations of the Irvin family represented at the anniversary—Mr. Irvin's mother, his daughter, Mrs. George Myer, of Lemont, and their little daughter, Alice. About twelve o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Irvin again as bride and groom, were the principals in the wedding ceremony. A sumptuous dinner followed the cermony, and after every one had done ample justice to the many good things that were loaded on the tables, singing was indulged in by some of the guests (Mrs. William VanTries presiding at the piano, while others enjoyed a very pleasant social time all the afternoon. The host and hostess were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and useful gifts. When the time came for departure, the company heartily wished Mr. and Irvin many years of joy and happiness.

It is Now Sergeant Blair.

Adjutant General Smith has been made Regimental Sergeant Major which necessarily left a vacancy at the head of the hospital corps. So during the week Russel R. Blair was appointed to the position with the rank of sergeant. It is now, if you please "Sergeant Blair." He certainly makes a dandy non-com and when he gives a command the boys "beat it" because they know he means business. Besides Dr. Blair on the staff are Dr. Bert Robb, Dr. Wilson Gephart, Dr. Ed. Keichline and Dr. Huff of Milesburg. Of course Dr. Huff of Milesburg is just to fill in, the other boys know how to dish out the quinine.

Mr. and Mrs. Clevenstine Entertain.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clevenstine entertained the firm of Joseph Brothers and Company and all the employees at a magnificent turkey supper, Mr. Clevenstine has charge of the large carpet department at Joseph's store, and is held in high esteem by both the firm and his fellow clerks.

A PLAY TO THE GALLERY.

By Cecilia A. Loizeaux.

Copyright, 1906, by May McKeon.

It had just dawned upon Philip Smart that Kate Hampton was the girl he wanted. He wondered how he could ever have hesitated or ever have had a doubt. Why, she was simply cut out for him, he thought, as he dressed with care and precision to go and tell her so.

"I should have told her months ago," he mentally argued. "She must think I'm an awful duffer," and he wondered anew that he had been such a blind fool as not to know what had been the matter with him all these months. He believed now that he had been in love with her ever since they had gone to the kindergarten and had not known it.

His heart was very light, and he was singing at the top of a lusty baritone voice, "Oh, but I love you, dear!" when there was a thump at his door and his best friend, Fred Bart, dropped in. Fred was also dressed with care and precision and accosted Philip with his customary bellow.

"Going up to the Hamptons'? Well, hurry up! You must have been dressing for an hour. What makes you so happy—got your salary raised?"

"No!" said Philip shortly. He suddenly felt anything but cheerful. As he knotted his cravat he said many things under his breath, ostensibly at the stubborn tie. The thermometer of his feelings was dropping. He wondered what in thunder Fred had to go up there tonight for. Couldn't he see when he wasn't wanted? The last time Kate had been not much more than civil.

He finally turned from the glass and wriggled into his coat, with a flushed face. "Well, come on!" he said.

As they strolled up the shady suburban streets Fred did not seem to notice the drop in Phil's spirits, but talked away, with his hand on his companion's shoulder, until Phil began to hate him.

However, when they reached the Hampton house and found two white clad figures on the porch his heart began to bound again. It was quite likely that Fred was going to see Kate's sister, Rose, who was much more his style, and doubtless in the course of the evening he could get Kate off by herself.

So the four sat on the steps and made merry, and when Phil proposed a walk Fred cordially seconded the idea, and they all got as far as the gate together. Phil thought there couldn't be a better time for telling a girl you loved her than the quiet moonlit night nor a better place than the deserted streets of a quiet suburb. But when they reached the gate Rose decided she wanted a wrap, and instead of waiting for her, as he should have done, Fred strolled on up the street with Kate, and Phil had to wait.

It wasn't a hilarious walk. Rose seemed as out of sorts as Phil, and they were both glad when they reached the gate again and could get away from each other. Phil would not accept Rose's invitation to wait on the porch until Fred and Kate came home. He didn't want to see Fred at all. But he consoled himself with the thought that very likely Kate was as disappointed as he himself, and the very next day he telephoned for permission to come up that evening. It was graciously granted, and he went downtown and bought a ring, being an old fashioned lover.

The next afternoon he chanced to meet Kate on the street, and she stopped him. "By the way, bring over your banjo tonight," she said. "We'll have a little porch party, and your banjo is always so much in demand." And then he began to wonder whether it could be possible that she might not care for him. If she did, why on earth was she always getting a lot of people around when he came? Then his brow cleared. "The dear girl!" he thought. "She is afraid I will see that she cares, and it is her way of defending herself."

The porch party was jolly, and there was a good time, but Phil saw next to nothing of Kate. She was here and there and everywhere, the moving spirit of fun. Nevertheless he felt that he gained a little, for when he said good night he held her hand decidedly longer than he would have wanted another fellow to hold it, and she did not draw it back, as of course she would have done had it been another fellow.

On Saturday when he asked to take her driving she assented with a proper show of reluctance. "She knows!" he thought. When he called for her in the twilight her mother explained that she was not quite ready yet and said that a girl friend had come to town quite unexpectedly and that she and Kate had forgotten time in their chattering.

Of course the least he could do was to offer to exchange the stanhope for a surrey and ask the guest and Rose to go too.

The guest stayed two weeks and during that time, though he tried numberless times, Phil did not get to see Kate alone. He waited as patiently as he could—there seemed to be nothing else for him to do—and hoped she would see the self sacrificing depth of his affection.

He had always known all the Hamptons and had been a frequent caller at the home. The judge liked him and his politics, which he talked to the poor fellow at all seasons. The mother admitted him to the family sitting room and darned the family stockings in his presence. The small brother, Jimmy, admitted that Phil was his equal. Advantageous as was this family friendship in some ways, it was as disadvantageous in others. If by any accident he called and found Kate apparently alone something always happened. The telephone rang and some one wanted to come over for a few minutes, or some presumptuous fool stopped in to see Rose and stayed to talk to Kate.

Phil grew sick at heart, and Kate began to seem a little cool and dignified. He felt that he must speak soon or forfeit the girl's love. She was too proud to help him a bit. One evening he rang her up and asked if he might see her alone. He had something very particular to tell her, he explained. Having gone so far, he swore by all that was holy that he would not leave the girl that night until he had proposed and had had an answer. "If the whole family comes in and stands around in a circle they can't stop me this time," he said. "I'll propose to Kate, and if they don't like it they can move. I won't."

Kate met him at the door and ushered him into the big library, where a great fire was burning on the hearth. It was warm and pleasant after the walk in the frosty air, and he settled himself in the judge's big armchair with a sigh of relief. Kate explained nervously that her father was out of town and then seemed to wait for something. Phil cleared his throat.

"Kate," he began and wondered just what he should say next. Why was it so hard when a fellow had thought of nothing else for weeks?

"Yes?" said Kate encouragingly, and then the front door slammed and in a moment more the judge entered the library. He greeted the young man cordially, sat down on the opposite side of the hearth and began to talk politics. And then Mrs. Hampton came in to see what was the matter. She had heard the front door slam and had thought the judge out of town for the night. In half an hour Rose ran in from making a call in the neighborhood and sat down to toast her toes at the fire.

They all talked comfortably, and no one seemed to notice that Philip's laugh was strained or that the flush on Kate's cheek was more than the usual healthy glow. Then the door was pushed open cautiously, and little Jim appeared in his pajamas.

"What are you all having such a good time about?" he whined as he climbed into his father's lap. "You always leave me out."

Phil's endurance reached its limit right there. He rose, with his square jaw set.

"We won't leave you out this time, Jimmy," he said. "We won't leave anybody out. Call in the kitten, please!" And then he turned to Kate, who seemed paralyzed as she realized what he was going to do.

"Kate," he said, "for weeks and weeks I've been trying every day to get you where I could tell you that I love you and ask you to be my wife. I haven't succeeded for various reasons, so I'll have to do it right here, with applause from the gallery. Will you, Kate?" He was standing over her now, and they held the tableau. The tears were running down her face, but she could not take her eyes from his. When he dropped on one knee beside the chair the family waked from its dream and departed on tiptoe, the judge dragging the reluctant Jimmy by the ear.

"Will you, Kate?" begged Philip. And then they both burst into peals of laughter, which were heard in the dining room by the discomfited family.

But there is good reason to believe that she did, for the judge has been heard to say that he considers his son-in-law the bravest man in the world.

A London Banquet of 1582.

A Spanish visitor to London in 1582 describes a banquet of that day. "I will tell you no lye," he begins cautiously. "I saw such kindes of meate eaten as are wont to be sene and not eaten—as a horse rosted, a cat in gely, little lizars with whot broth, frogges fried and divers other sortes of meates, which I sawe theme eate, but I never knew what they were till they were eaten." The "quaking custard" of that period was a huge dish in the middle of the table, into which, "at a private signal, the city fool suddenly leaped over the heads of the astonished feasters, who were instantly bespattered with this rich and savory mud." Undeterred, however, by this nasty behavior, the citizens not only ate plentifully of the custard, but even took some home to their wives. Nor were the women of those days backward in demanding expensive dainties for themselves, it seems, for an essayist of 1601 sarcastically asks: "Who will not admire our nice dames of London, who must have cherries at 20 shillings a pound and peascods at 5 shillings a peck? Yong rabbettes of a spanne and chickens of an inch?"

Slaves In Scotland.

Were there once slaves in Scotland? A volume on Scottish industrial and social history in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries has some passages on the subject:

"It shocks us very much to learn that the men, and even the women, who worked in the coal mines at that time—i. e., the eighteenth century—in Scotland still continued to be, as of old, little better than slaves. By a law passed by the Scottish parliament in 1606 every man who once went to work in a coal mine was bound to labor in it all his life as a "necessary servant." If he tried to run away he was tried and punished as a thief. If the land was sold on which the coal pit stood in which he worked he was sold with it like any of the machinery of the pit. In 1775 an act of parliament was passed which set free most of the pit workers, but it was not till the end of the century that this form of slavery was quite abolished."

Odd Occurrence In the Hunting Field

On the afternoon of Feb. 8, 1794, the hounds of his grace the Duke of Beaufort were in full cry. The run had been a long one, and they knew that the fox was almost spent. Suddenly the scent turned abruptly from the open, leading straight into the garden of a cottage in the little village of Castle Coombe. Those who were following wondered what had happened and were more astonished still to see the entire pack, without checking for an instant, dash through the open door into the little room. A shrill scream was heard, and when the whipper in threw himself from his horse and gained the threshold he saw a sight which probably no fox hunter has ever met before or since. A white faced woman stood clasping a child in her arms, and right there in the cradle, from which the infant had just been snatched, eighteen couple of fierce hounds were struggling to devour their fox.

English Men and Women.

Englishwomen are inherently shy, and half the bad manners with which we are credited as a nation is the result of this shyness. Englishmen suffer from it to the same extent, only in their case shyness is merely self consciousness and part and parcel of an immense conceit.—London Ladies' Field.

Saw Her Chance.

Wife—Mrs. Flareup threw a flatiron at her husband last night because he accidentally sat down on her new bonnet. Now, I couldn't do a thing like that. Husband—You couldn't? Wife—Of course not. I haven't any new bonnet.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food eaten is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associate organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the body relies for its strength. And as the body, considered as a whole, is made up of its several members and organs, so the weakness of the body as a consequence of "weak" stomach will be distributed among the organs which compose the body. If the body is weak because it is ill-nourished that physical weakness will be found in all the organs—heart, liver, kidneys, etc. The liver will be torpid and inactive, giving rise to biliousness, loss of appetite, weak nerves, feeble or irregular action of heart, palpitation, dizziness, headache, backache and kindred disturbances and weaknesses.

Mr. Louis Pare, of Quebec, writes: "For years after my health began to fail, my head grew dizzy, eyes pained me, and my stomach was sore all the time, while everything I would eat would seem to lie heavy like lead on my stomach. The doctors claimed that it was sympathetic trouble due to dyspepsia, and prescribed for me, and although I took their powders regularly yet I felt no better. My wife advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and stop taking the doctor's medicine. She bought me a bottle and we soon found that I began to improve, so I kept up the treatment. I took on flesh, my stomach became normal, the digestive organs worked perfectly and I soon began to look like a different person. I can never cease to be grateful for what your medicine has done for me and I certainly give it highest praise."

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

Hunt For a Hangman.

The British army was once in difficulties through the lack of a hangman Murder was committed by a soldier in the Crimea, but nobody could be found to carry out the sentence of the court martial. It was announced that £20 and a free discharge would be granted to the man undertaking the task. At last a man did volunteer. He was a newcomer to the army. On the night prior to the date fixed for the execution they locked up the hangman in a stable to keep him safe. In the morning the party at the gallows waited, but there was no hangman. He had gone mad during the night or else he was now simulating madness. The officer in command turned to one of his captains with, "Captain, you will have the goodness to hang the prisoner!" The captain changed countenance, but he pulled himself together and appealed to the sergeants with, "Which of you will hang this man?" And to spare his captain one of the men volunteered. He afterward had the satisfaction of flogging the man who had volunteered and failed.

The Way to Work.

If work has to be done the only way to escape will paralysis is to launch oneself upon the task, realizing that if it is difficult it is not likely to grow easier and that some sort of a beginning must be made. "Keep the faculty of effort alive in you by a little gratuitous exercise every day," writes a canny psychologist in his chapter on "Habit." This gratuitous exercise it is that trains the will to rule life and destiny; it is the one great secret of success. Postponing of disagreeable duties means laxness invading the will, a certain slackening of all the mental nature, an invasion of a paralytic tendency. If the will failed to obey at a given moment yesterday it is vastly less likely to obey today, whereas a daily habit of forceful inhibiting or commanding makes for that most desirable of all endowments, "a completely fashioned will." — Harper's Weekly.

The First Nails.

The first nails were undoubtedly the sharp teeth of various animals. Then it is believed pointed fragments of flint followed. The first manufactured metal nails were of bronze. The nail with which Jael killed Sisera was a wooden tent pin, probably pointed with iron. Bronze nails have been found in the Swiss lake dwellings, in several places in France and in the valley of the Nile. Until the nineteenth century iron nails were forged, a blacksmith being able to make only two or three dozen a day. The first cut nails were made by Jeremiah Wilkinson in Rhode Island in 1775. The first patented nail machine was by Perkins, 1795, and its product of 200,000 nails a day was considered so enormous that some persons deemed the result due to supernatural agency.

How to Grow Miniature Oaks.

Secure a good ripe acorn and suspend it by a piece of cord within half an inch or so of water contained in a glass. There let it stay, for if permitted to remain without disturbance for a few months it will burst, send a root into the water and shoot upward a straight, tapering stem covered with beautiful little green leaves. In this manner a young oak tree can be cultivated and become an interesting object to all that behold it. As soon as the plant has made its appearance it will be found beneficial to change the water frequently.

Exorbitant Premiums.

"What would you think of a 99 per cent premium?" said an insurance agent. "A premium of $99,000 on a $100,000 policy. Hardly worth taking out, eh?" Such a policy was once taken out, though, on a ship thought to be lost. It is a common thing on overdue ships to take out policies at 80 or 85 or 90 per cent. On the Bulgaria and the Croft in 1899 policies at 90 per cent were taken out, and on the Adelaide Mary, even after two of her lifeboats had been picked up, a policy of 92 per cent was issued.

One Evil Chases the Other.

Visitor to the West Indies (who has been warned against bathing in the river because of alligators, but has been told by the boatmen that there are none at the river's mouth)—By Jove, this is ripping! But, I say, how do you know there are no alligators here? Boatman—Well, you see, sah, de alligator am so turr'ble feared ob de shark.—Punch.

Fox Terrier's Points.

The fox terrier is the most intelligent of all the smaller breeds, and there is hardly a trick that he cannot learn in a very few lessons. He is usually healthy, makes the best kind of a watch dog, and his ability to catch and kill rats and other vermin is another story. In symmetry, size and character the dog must present a generally gay, lively and active appearance. The terrier, like the foxhound, must on no account be "leggy," nor must he be too short in the leg. He should stand like a cleverly made hunter, covering a lot of ground, yet with a short back, as before stated. He will then attain the highest degree of propelling power, together with the greatest length of stride that is compatible with the length of his body. Weight is not a certain criterion of a terrier's fitness for his work—general shape, size and contour are the main points, and if a dog can gallop and stay and follow his fox up a drain it matters little what his weight is to a pound or so, though roughly speaking, it may be said that he should not scale over twenty pounds. —Eugene R. Cole in Home Magazine.

LENTEN REGULATIONS.

Observance of the Penitential Season in Usnal Manner.

The usual special services of the Lenten season will be held in St. John's Catholic church, Bellefonte, including the rosary and other devotions on Wednesday evenings and the solemn Stations of the Cross at the services each Friday evening. The Lenten regulations issued by Bishop Eugene A. Garvey, of the Altoona diocese, have been read in all the churches of the diocese and are as follows in substance:

1 All the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year are bound to observe the fast of Lent, unless dispensed for legitimate reasons.

2. The persons exempted from fasting are: The infirm, those under twenty-one years of age, women in pregnancy or nursing infants, those who are engaged in laborious occupations, and those who are enfeebled by old age.

3. Only one full meal a day is allowed for those who are bound to fast, except on Sundays.

4. On the days on which permission is granted to eat meat, both meat and fish are not to be used at the same meal by any one.

5. A collation or partial meal is allowed in the evening. It should never exceed eight ounces.

By virtue of an indult of the Holy See, dated August 3rd, 1886, the following special dispensions are granted:

6. Bread, butter, cheese, fruit of all kinds, salads, vegetables, fish, milk, and eggs are permitted at the collation.

7. It is lawful to drink in the morning some warm liquid, such as tea, coffee, chocolate, and to partake of a small portion of bread, not exceeding two ounces.

8. The use of lard instead of butter is allowed in preparing fish, vegetables, etc.

9. The use of flesh meat is permitted at any time on Sundays, once a day Mondays, Tuesday, Thursdays, and Saturdays, with the exception of Ember Saturday and Holy Saturday.

10. On the above named days when meat is allowed its use is not restricted to one meal in the cases of persons exempt from fasting by age or laborious occupation.

11. When the principal meal cannot be taken conveniently at midday, it is permitted to change the order, taking the collation then and the dinner in the evening.

12. By virtue of powers granted the Holy See, workingmen and their families are permitted the use of flesh meat once a day on all the fast days and abstinence days throughout the year, with the exception of all Fridays, Ash Wednesday, the Wednesday and Saturday of Holy Week, and the eve of Christmas. Those who avail themselves of this dispensation are not allowed to eat fish and flesh at the same meal and they are exhorted to perform some voluntary act of mortification.

A Soft Drink Plant.

From all indications Snow Shoe is going to be a Temperance town. Great piles of ice are being stored away by the people up there to make good cold ice water during the hot summer days, and last week George B. Uzzle and Beany Hall established a soft drink plant. The boys expect to do an immense business in this line and no doubt they will be successful. May the good work prosper and be encouraged by the citizens of that town.

Tyranny of Clothes.

Place a man in a silk hat and frock coat and transport him to a farmyard. Agricultural pursuits may be the one passion of his life, but clad in these garments he feels in such surroundings miserable, out of place, essentially urban. Clothe him, conversely, in flannels or knickers and place him in a church, and it is utterly impossible for him to assume a fittingly devotional frame of mind. Unlimited autocracy itself cannot impose such tyrannies on the subject. Civilization is the slave of its clothes, and there is no prospect of freedom. — London Graphic.

The Juice of the Grape.

The Arabs say that when the first grapevine was planted the demon Iblis sacrificed a peacock on the spot where the plant was set. As soon as it began to sprout forth he sacrificed an ape over it. When the grapes began to appear he slaughtered a lion, and when these were ripe he offered up a pig; hence it is that he who drinks wine feels at first as proud as a peacock and becomes subsequently as tricksome as an ape, as bold as a lion and at length as stupid as a swine.

Definitions.

Asked to define a suffragist, a British schoolboy answered, "A person who creates a disturbance." One boy described "surf" as "a form of seaweed which grows in the Pacific ocean." In an essay on the canine race a pupil declared that "small dogs improve by keeping," and another gave the singular of "twain" as "worsted."

Washington Monument.

The towering Washington monument, solid as it is, cannot resist the heat of the sun poured on its southern side on a midsummer's day without a slight bending of the gigantic shaft, which is rendered perceptible by means of a copper wire 174 feet long hanging in the center of the structure and carrying a plummet suspended in a vessel of water.

Animal Voices.

A cow will moo about an octave; a dog will bark a fourth or fifth of an octave; a horse's neigh is a descent on the chromatic scale, while the donkey will bray in octaves. No donkey has ever yet given evidence of proficiency in the study of voice production.

Success.

The Youth—Yes, I'm in business for myself, but I don't seem to be able to meet with any success. The Sage—Nobody ever meets with success, young man. He must overtake it.

Punishing a Court Fool.

Ivan the Terrible, Peter the Great and the Emperor Paul had rough ways with their fools. A dagger thrust would follow a poor joke and banishment any sign of declining wit. Once when Fougere, the jester of Czar Paul, offended his royal master he was permitted to depart in peace. In the middle of the night, however, he was aroused and ordered to get up and prepare for immediate banishment to Siberia. In vain the unhappy man pleaded. He was bundled into a dark van and driven away on his long journey. Day after day, week after week, it lasted. Upon arrival he stepped out into the presence of—the czar. All the time he had been driven not toward Siberia, but around and around St. Petersburg!

The Larger Class.

"Of course," said the seeker after knowledge, "we seldom hear 'thee' and 'thou' nowadays. They're used mostly by poets, aren't they?"

"No," replied the editor; "they're used mostly by people who think they're poets."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Auto Habit.

Some delver has found in the Bible what he believes to be a hint of automobiles. It is contained in the story of the vision of Nahum, the Elkoshite, concerning the burden of Nineveh. In the account given by this seer of the military array of the Medes and Babylonians against Nineveh occurs this verse: "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against the other in the broad way, they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightning." If that doesn't describe a street full of motor cars what does? Then, again, a variant of the word "jostle," which the original Hebrew will, it is said, bear even better, is "pass swiftly, without particular purpose, to and fro." Isn't that the automobile habit?

Smoking a Pipe.

The Canadian Cigar and Tobacco Journal gives some hints to those who smoke pipes. Everybody thinks he knows how to smoke a pipe, but to do it perfectly is not easy. "Time is a keynote of successful pipe smoking," says the Journal, "and another is gentleness. Take it easy. Don't crowd the pipe to the top of the bowl. Never get a pipe hot. Keep cool, and keep your pipe cool. You can relight a pipe, and if you are an old smoker you will be all the better for it. When you have finished do not refill a heated pipe."

A Hint For Young Playwrights.

The young man wrapped up his rejected play with a rather sad smile.

"Thank you for reading it," he said. "It is the sixth unsuccessful drama I have written."

The manager of 117 theaters gave him an encouraging pat on the shoulder.

"Look here," he said. "I'll tell you what you want to do. You want to begin less ambitious. Begin with a one act curtain raiser. And after you've wrote this here curtain raiser send it around with the sentence printed on the cover, 'You can play this for nothing.' I guarantee you'll get a hearing then. Ten to one, by gosh, you'll get played."

"A good idea," murmured the young man.

"That's what it is," said the great manager. "I got it from Sidney Grundy. It's how he began. His first play was a curtain raiser, 'A Little Change.' He said on it, 'Play it for nothing.' And the Haymarket theater took him up."

Great Work Ended

The revival meetings in the Methodist Episcopal church closed on Friday evening. These meetings have been in progress since January 1st and fifty men, women and children were saved and brought to see their need of Jesus Christ. Rev. James Stein the pastor and scores of assistants have labored earnestly during this period to bring men and women to live better lives and their efforts have been rewarded by fifty being converted.

Now will come the struggle to live the life of a christian. There are so many worldly temptations to lead them back into the broad high way again, but they must keep in close touch with the Master and have Him for their confidential friend.

What a Goose Can Do.

A farmer would scarcely believe that a goose requires only about sixty hours in order to prepare it for the footlights and a critical audience, and that a common pig will in thirty hours be competent to blossom forth as an actor. According to Mr. Clyde Powers, a trainer of wide experience and much patience, it takes a duck about three days to learn how to march on the stage, to follow the chorus and to march off again at the proper time. It takes a chicken a week or more, and a turkey can not grasp the art of acting before six months' time. Mr. Powers has tried to train a peafowl, but he finds that it is impossible. A goose is the most intelligent of all the feathered tribe, and a goose is also the only one of the domestic fowls that shows affection.

The Third Delight

By Ina Wright Hanson.

Copyright, 1906, by M. M. Cunningham.

"It's so difficult, this being the third Delight," she sighed.

"What is it, Delight Darling?" I asked, using her family name for an adjective, a method which pleased me greatly, and longing to comfort her downcast sapphire eyes with kisses.

"As you know, Dick Courtenay, my great-aunt Delight was a wonderful woman. As a little girl she made samplers. Later she spun and wove and was never known to get angry or speak ill of any one, or to be vain, or covetous, or worldly, or anything she shouldn't have been."

"I don't wonder she never married," I remarked.

"You are quite impertinent, Dick," said Delight reproachfully. "She was a perfect woman and beautiful."

"And your second aunt Delight is a beautiful woman, and you are her fresh cheeked replica. She is also a foolish woman to have renounced the pleasures of the world and to disparage the holy state of matrimony. My poor father"—

HER HEAD SANK TO MY SHOULDER.

I paused. I had no right to give away dad's secret, albeit an open one, but Delight was nodding her pretty head savagely.

"I should like your nice father to be my uncle, but auntie must know best, and I must try to be like her."

"Delight Darling," I said fervently, "your blue eyes were made for beholding love's visions, your little pink ears for hearing love's messages and your lips for kisses. Your feet were made for dancing and"—

"I believe I could learn as easily!" she exclaimed.

"Of course you could," I answered, smiling at her flushed cheeks. "And if you will let me teach you I will take you to the charity masquerade next week."

Delight gasped, but her eyes were full of longing.

"I am going to reason with your aunt," I declared.

"She sits in the garden making trousers for the Widow Jones' little boy," said Delight.

"She ought to be making trousers for her own little boy," I muttered as I strode out to interview her.

To my surprise I found the second Miss Delight quite susceptible to my arguments. She closed the interview by saying:

"But don't let the child know I said so. She will enjoy the pleasure more if she deems it stolen."

A strong sentiment indeed for the pretty but austere Miss Delight Darling to hold.

As I was dressing for the masquerade a tap came at my door, followed by a rather portly "Quaker grandpa." My eyes followed the outlines of his figure and fell upon a peculiar seal ring which I recognized.

"If you don't want to be known, dad," I suggested, "better let me wear your ring."

He complied so quickly that I divined that he didn't want to be known. He wasn't very talkative, and, as I had troubles of my own, I wasn't inclined to entice him into conversation. I was glad, though, to see that he was going into society again. Dad loved good women in an age of chivalry sort of way, and I hated to see him waste his time on perverse Miss Delight Darling.

Later Delight and I, masked and robed, stole down back streets to the charity ball, she turning my father's ring round and round on my finger, for she held my hand as if it alone could save her from destruction. I whistled carelessly under my breath to give her nerves a chance to be quiet.

She begged not to dance, though she had proved an apt pupil, so we, a lady in scarlet and a Roman senator, sat in a corner and watched the merrymakers.

"Why, there's another lady in scarlet!" she exclaimed. "The costumer said she had sold another like this. I wonder if she feels as reckless and as—as happy as I do."

"Probably this isn't her first glimpse into fairyland," I answered. "She doesn't dance like an old timer, though Do you notice the Quaker with her?"

"He looks familiar," she said curiously. "I wonder who he is."

I was doing some wondering on my own hook, too, but I was most concerned about the lady in scarlet with him.

By and by I took my lady into the dimly lighted conservatory and pressed her scarlet gloved hand. After a long time she shyly returned the pressure.

"Have you a cold?" she asked constrainedly. "Your voice doesn't sound natural tonight."

"Perhaps. I hadn't thought about it. Little girl, are you very, very happy?"

"Yes," she admitted.

"Of course you are, and you are doing right to be happy. But this is only the froth. The real substance is a home and an honest man's love. It is as natural for you to love as for these orchids to bloom. Delight Darling, am I the man you love?"

Her head sank to my shoulder. From her dark hair came perfume of violets.

"If you must know it, Richard Courtenay, I think you are a king among men, and, renouncing all I have held to be most worthy, I will do your will."

It didn't sound like Delight's spontaneity of expression, but the sentiment was so satisfactory that I was about to lift the scarlet mask to prove to her that her lips were made for just what I had said, when two ghosts and the Queen of Hearts entered and obviously hindered the demonstration.

The fall of the masks was the coup de theatre of the evening, for four people at least. It happened that we stood close to the Quaker and the other lady in scarlet—my father and—my own little rosy, girlish Delight. I looked in amazement at the little lady on my arm. Then I know my face grew purple.

"Let's get out of here," I chortled, "or I'll explode!"

Into the conservatory, where my successful love making had been executed, I hurried my indignant companion, the small and decidedly fascinating aunt of my little Delight.

"Now, Dick Courtenay, explain yourself!" the little lady commanded, her eyes dangerously dark, her cheeks matching her dress.

"Oh, the joke is too rich to explain," I wheezed, wiping my eyes. "Sit down here, Miss Delight, till I bring my father."

She sprang to grasp my arm, but I fled. I met my father just darting in.

"Oh, boy, what a fool I've made of myself!" he groaned. "I've proposed to the wrong woman, and she's accepted me! Confound masquerades anyhow!"

I pushed him into the conservatory. "The right woman is in there, dad. If you'll fix it up with her, I'll attend to the other one."

"Oh, Dick," caroled my own Delight as I led her to the shadowy veranda, "I'm going to be your mamma!"

"And I'm to be your uncle," I answered, "but don't tell me you knew it was my dad all the time."

"Of course I did." Her eyes were dancing with mischief. "And I knew he thought he was talking to auntie, though I didn't know she was here. And, oh, Dick Courtenay, I have just begun to live in this beautiful, moon swept, rose colored world!"

And with the surety that matters were being "fixed up" in the conservatory and the yielding of the third Delight to my arm's embrace I realized that I, too, had just begun to live.

A Freshman.

A freshman who had entered one of the large universities and was not much accustomed to the ways either of institutions of learning or of cities was returning late one evening from a lecture. When near his lodgings he was halted by two masked men, who "held him up" in true metropolitan style. One of the men leveled the conventional revolver at the young man, while the other relieved him of his watch, pocketbook and other valuables. He made no mention of the matter to anybody at the time, but a few days later he reported it to the president of the university.

"It wasn't a great deal," he said, "but it was more than I like to lose, and I think it's an outrage to treat a boy that way."

"Why didn't you tell me of this sooner?" asked the president.

"I supposed they would bring the things back to me next morning," he answered. "It was a couple of sophomores hazing me, wasn't it?"—Youth's Companion.

Weary Watches.

"I suppose," said the watchmaker, "you do not know that watches, like human beings, sometimes don't 'go' for the very good reason that they are tired. Sometimes a watch is brought to me which is all right. Nothing about it is out of order, and it is fairly clean. When it becomes sulky and refuses to go except by fits and starts the best thing to do is to lay it aside and give it a rest. The mechanism in a 'tired' watch seems to be in perfect condition, but it won't work. The fact is that long and faithful service has thrown it slightly out of adjustment in perhaps ten different places. Scraping and cleaning and readjusting a fine watch is the worst thing that could be done to it. A month's rest will instead cause the works slowly to readjust themselves, and at the end of that time after careful oiling the watch will go as cheerfully as ever."—Washington Star.

Big Game Birds.

The capercailzie, or "black game bird of Norway," is one of the largest species of game birds in the world, being very hardy and frequently attaining a weight exceeding fifteen pounds, but when the birds are young they are easy prey of hawks. The birds are what are known as "rangers" for the reason that while in quest of food they cover a wide expanse of territory. During periods of heavy snowfall they burrow into the snow and remain until the storm subsides before venturing out again. Their food in winter consists chiefly of birch buds, and in summer they catch mice and other small animals. They are rated as members of the grouse family and in habits are much like the partridge.—Forest and Stream.

Patti's First Audience.

Adelina Patti once gave the following account of her first audience: At six years of age I was a prima donna of the nursery. When I had been put to bed on my return home with my father and mother from the opera I used to make sure that they and the rest of the family were asleep, and then I would hop out from beneath the counterpane and fancy myself a great cantatrice, bowing before the plaudits of a huge audience. I admit my audience was a little apathetic, but, after all, that is not to be wondered at, for they were only a row of dolls which I had ranged on chairs before me.

Twice Two.

"Do you really believe two heads are better than one?"

"Give it up, but I know we wouldn't amount to much without foreheads."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Might Have Made a Killing.

A physician took it into his head to go rabbit shooting. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he returned, tired out and empty handed, telling his wife that he hadn't killed a thing. Thereupon she remarked: "I told you so. If you had stayed at home and attended to your legitimate business you might have been more successful."—Chicago News.

Sweetly Said.

The influence of locality upon speech is illustrated by a reply received from a Vermont farmer and quoted in the Boston Herald. The old man had been questioned in regard to the value of an estate left by one of his neighbors. "Waal," said he, with great deliberation, "we cal'late he'll sugar off about $50,000."

No Wedding Bells For Him.

Weary Willie (reading "ad.")—Man wanted to chop wood, bring up coal, tend furnace, take care of garden, mind chickens and children. Frayed Fagin (groaning)—Gee! Dem matrimonial advertisements make me tired. —Judge.

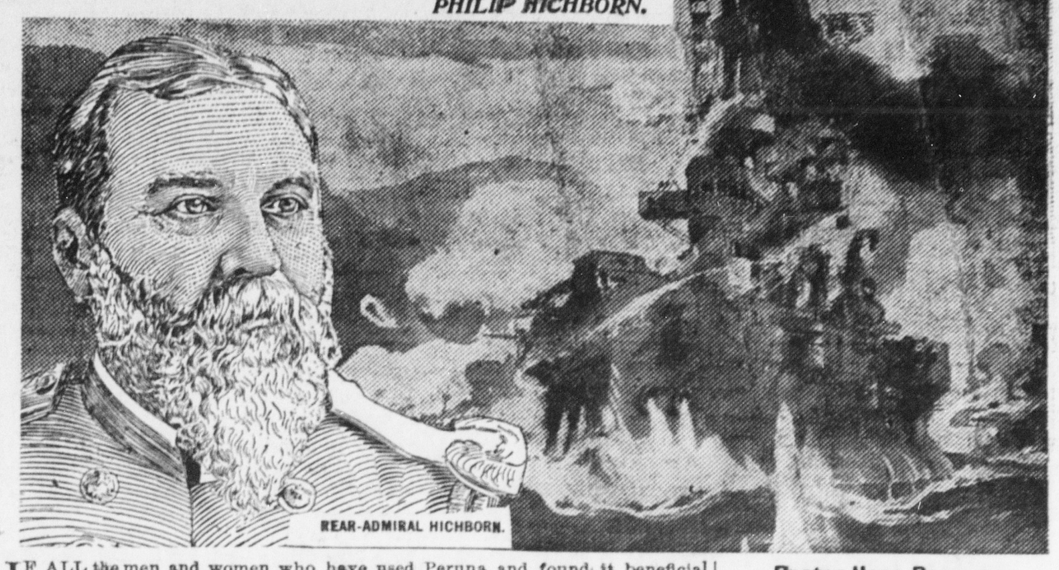
REAR-ADMIRAL HICHBORN PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Peruna Drug Co.,
Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic.

Very respectfully,
PHILIP HICHBORN.



REAR-ADMIRAL HICHBORN.

IF ALL the men and women who have used Peruna and found it beneficial should write testimonials giving the plain facts, we would be overwhelmed with certificates.

But only now and then one who has been benefited by Peruna stops to give any public acknowledgement of a cure.

Various considerations prevent people from writing testimonials for publication. Inordinate modesty, oversensitiveness and business considerations forbid many people from writing testimonials who otherwise would be glad to do so.

All Classes Represented.

But in spite of all these considerations, thousands of people without any solicitation whatever do write testimonials for Peruna.

We receive these from men of high degree and low degree, from the army and the navy, from the hall of congress, from the colleges, from high officials in the church, from the society belle and the washerwoman, from the military man and the civilian.

We have never put into print but a small per cent. of those actually received.

Sincere Testimony.

In presenting the testimonial of Admiral Hichborn we appreciate the high rank of our testifier.

We feel sure that his testimonial will appeal to others as it does to us, that nothing but a genuine wish to do others good would have impelled a man in such honorable rank to give public testimony to any remedy, however valuable.

The Admiral is altogether too busy a man to answer letters of inquiry, but the reader can rest assured that his testimony is given in his exact words, over his signature.

Genuine Endorsements.

Our testimonials are and always have been given in the exact language of the testifier, with which we take no liberties whatever in adding to or changing them.

In the use of testimonials we have always received them properly signed, in good faith, have published them in good faith, and if there has arisen a slight misunderstanding concerning them, it has been some unavoidable complication occurring after the testimonial has been furnished us.

A Captain's Letter.

Rudolph B. Schwickardi, Capt. 39th N. Y. Vol. Inf., writes from Washington, D. C.:

"Having the fullest confidence in the efficacy of Peruna, both as a tonic and as a remedy for catarrhal trouble, I commend its use in the strongest possible terms. It should be in every household."

Pastor Uses Pe-ru-na.

Rev. P. E. Swanstrom, box 228, Grantsburg, Wis., writes:

"I feel that it is my duty as well as a pleasure to let you know that I am entirely cured. I have used Peruna according to your personal directions and I am very glad that I found a medicine which would cure me after three years of suffering."

Editor's Recommendation.

Fred M. Armstrong, city editor, Daily Gazette, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to recommend Peruna to everybody who is looking for a first-class tonic. Two bottles completely cured me and now I am enjoying the best of health."

Congressmen Endorse Pe-ru-na

Hon. W. E. Andrews, Hastings, Neb., formerly vice-president of Hastings College and ex-member of the Fifty-fourth Congress, writes:

"I cheerfully recommend the preparation, Peruna, as a healthful tonic and a successful remedy for catarrh in its various forms."

Author Praises Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Robert B. Hanvey, well-known author and lecturer, writes from 11 S. Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill.:

"I was in good health until about four years ago when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing with severe twitches and slow exhaustive aches. Having read of Peruna, I decided to try it. I found relief in ten days. Within three months I was well once more. I give all thanks to Peruna."

A Spring Sale.

The ladies of the Reformed Church are preparing for their Spring Sale. They expect to make this a great success. Childrens clothing a specialty—All kinds of aprons, made of the best gingham. They will also have plenty of good things to eat for sale.

—All pictures left at my store over sixty days ago to be framed, will be held until March 1st and then will be offered for sale. If you have a picture here call and see about it or it will be sold. I will not be responsible for pictures over 30 days. E. J. ECKENROTH.

Great Attraction Coming.

Mr. Taylor of the skating rink has secured Mr. Dawson and Miss Booth at a very high figure to come to Bellefonte and give three performances in the skating rink on February 28 and March 1 and 2. Mr. Dawson and Miss Booth are considered the greatest comedy, novelty artists on roller skates in the world, and their coming to Bellefonte should attract a large audience every night. Their sketch entitled birthday dinner and acrobatic posturing on 36inch high roller skate stilts, two distinct acts combined is worth alone the price of admission.

Between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, the time when womenhood begins and motherhood ends, it is estimated that the agregate term of woman's suffering is ten years. Ten years out of thirty! One third of the best part of a woman's life sacrificed! Think of the enormous loss of time! But time is not all that is lost. Those years of suffering steal the bloom from the cheeks, the brightness from the eyes, the fairness from the from. They write their record in many a crease and wrinkle. What a boon then to woman is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It promotes perfect regularity, dries up debilitating drains, heals ulceration, cures female weakness and establishes the delicate womanly organs in vigorous and permanent health. No other medicine can do for woman what is done by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

WIFE OF JUROR DEAD

Death Calls a Halt to Further Progress of Trial

DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Another Tragic Chapter Added to the Famous Case---All the Jurymen Given their Liberty.

THE TRIAL MAY BE CALLED OFF

New York, February 15.—Another tragic chapter in the history of the Thaw—White episode was written when grim death stepped in to halt the famous trial in its fourth week. The wife of Juror No. 11, Mrs. Joseph B Bolton, died Thursday afternoon, soon after her husband had reached her bed. He had been summoned from the court room where the trial had been in progress for less than fifteen minutes. The formal announcement of Mrs. Bolton's death was made in court shortly after 2 p.m., the hour set for the afternoon session, and Justice Fitzgerald immediately ordered, with the consent of counsel, that the other eleven jurymen be given their liberty, and no longer be held together. He admonished the jurors to be guided by their honor and their conscience, and not to read the newspapers or discuss the Thaw case with anybody.

Men-of-war on Paper.

Each man-of-war is built upon paper before a single plate of steel is forged. Not only are the length and breadth of a ship decided upon, but the naval constructor can tell to an ounce how much water she will displace when her armor and guns are mounted upon her, how many times her propellers will revolve in a minute with a given pressure of steam and how many tons of coal an hour must be consumed to attain a certain rate of speed.—London Graphic.

His Gloomy Life.

"What," asked the sweet girl, "was the happiest moment of your life?"

"The happiest moment of my life," answered the old bachelor, "was when the jeweler took back an engagement ring and gave me sleeve links in exchange."

Inquiry as to a Holdup.

She (sternly)—Why were you so late last night? He (apologetically)—I was held up on my way home. She (still sternly)—Were you too far gone to walk alone?—Baltimore American.

Prudence.

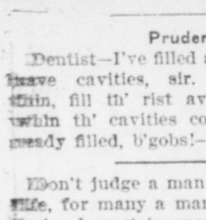
Original.

"My wife is a most original woman," said Brown. "Why, when I proposed to her instead of saying, 'This is so sudden,' she said, 'Well, I think it's about time.'"

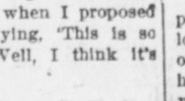
Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.



Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y. on every bottle

How Woxall Was Named.

Near Schwenksville, Pa., is a village that bears the name of Woxall. This wonderful name was the result of an error upon the part of the postoffice department in Washington. The place was known many years ago as "Croppestettel," or "Crowtown," and later as Mechanicsville, but when a postoffice was established there in 1888 neither of these names was satisfactory, and it was decided to choose a new cognomen. Many were the suggestions submitted to the postoffice department, but all were found to be too nearly like the name of some other postoffice to be acceptable. One day the village storekeeper saw the word "Noxall" upon a piece of calico and called the attention of several friends to it. At once all agreed that "Noxall" would be a fine name for their town. So the postoffice authorities were notified. Soon a letter came from Washington approving the name that had been chosen, but in the letter it was spelled "Woxall." So Woxall became the name of the village.—Philadelphia Record.

What Puzzled Her.

A woman whose religious education had been received in the plain edifice erected by an unassuming New England congregation was persuaded, much against her will, to attend divine service in one of New York's most showy churches. She showed from the start that, notwithstanding her puritanical training, she was interested in the proceedings. She studied the elaborate ceremony, the architecture, the richly tinted windows and the altar decorations closely. By and by her eyes became fixed on the ceiling. Her friend wondered what particular feature of those lofty heights held her attention for so long a time. During a lull in the chanting of the choir she tried to find out.

"Oh," said the New England woman in tones of infinite concern, "I was just wondering how on earth they get away up there to dust the rafters!"—New York Post.

What Is "All Wool?"

I have met a county magnate, a wealthy man who would not be put off with anything but the best, if he knew it, clad in a handsome "homespun" suit, the delicate blue gray mixture of which I happened to know was produced by the judicious blending of old blue stockings, such as navvies wear with old white stockings. I have seen a "society" lady in a stylish "blanket tweed" motor coat, the composition of which I knew to be of such a nature that it might very easily owe its existence in part to the cast-off hosiery of her own scullery maid, collected from the ash bin. Even the judge trying a case of "misrepresentation of goods" may, as likely as not, be unconsciously sitting in somebody else's thrown away rags that he has bought as "all wool."—A Woolen Manufacturer in Grand Magazine.

His Modest Claim.

A claim for damages against a railroad company is so often a license for exorbitant charges that a simple bill, such as was received by an American railroad company many years ago, even apart from its humorous aspect, is refreshing. It ran as follows:

The —— and —— Railroad company to John Smith Dr.

July 19, 1837.—To running your Locomotive into my wife; as per Doctor's bill for curing her	$10.00
To smashing ban box and spilling her hat	3.87
To upsetting my deer born (wagon) and breaking it	35.00
To hurting me	5.00
	$53.87

There is authority for stating that the claim was paid immediately.—Scrap Book.

Her Chilly Retort.

The late Dr. —— of Malden, after pouring forth the story of his undying love in the most touching manner for over an hour to a young woman who he hoped would become his fourth wife, was refused the second time. He started for the door; but, looking around, he said in a most thunderous tone, "By heavens, you are the coldest woman I ever saw!"

The young woman looked up and answered sweetly:

"Oh, no, doctor; you have seen three colder than I!"—Boston Herald.

A Curious Notice.

This curious official notice was once published in Germany: "At the request of Herr Wilhelm Leigson of Innsbruck the seaman, Johan Leigson, who was drowned in May, 1869, on a journey from Stockholm to Hamburg in the Kaiser Friedrich, is hereby called upon by the courts to appear and report himself on or before April 1, 1881, under pain of being declared dead."

Financial Note.

Jerrold—Could you pay me that 10 shillings you owe me? I owe Johnson some money and want to pay him. Hobart—Well, I'll tell you what. You pay Johnson what you owe him, and then I'll borrow 10 shillings off Johnson and pay you.

Unjust.

Fluffy Young Thing (at the play)—I believe this man in front of us is trying to hear what we're saying. Man In Front (turning around)—You do me an injustice, my dear young lady. I am trying not to hear it.—Chicago Tribune.

Familiar.

Visitor—Will you tell your master that I called? Servant—Yes, sir, if you will please tell me your name. Visitor—That is unnecessary. He knows me quite well.—Wanderer.

Steamer Bound From Providence to New York Meets Disaster in Block Island Sound.

TRAGEDY BEFALLS SLEEPING PERSONS

Block Island, R. I. Feb. 12.—About 150 passengers went to their death in Block Island sound Wednesday night, as a result of a collision between the three-masted schooner Harry Knowlton and the Joy Line steamer Larchmont, bound from Providence to New York. It is estimated that, including the crew, there were nearly 200 persons on board the steamer when she sailed from Providence Of these only nineteen appeared to have survived the disaster, ten members of the crew and nine passengers. Forty-eight bodies have been recovered.

Those who survived the accident are:

Luck and Reputations.

"Nobody gifted with a sense of humor can fail to be diverted by the Puck-like manner in which luck makes and unmakes reputations for business ability," says Will Payne in Everybody's. "Years ago a gentleman named Jennings was an extensive owner of downtown real estate in Chicago. He was the first, I believe, to develop on a large scale the modern system of the ninety-nine year lease, whereby the owner insures to himself and his heirs for a century an absolutely fixed rental, free and clear of all charges. After Mr. Jennings had leased a lot of his lands for ninety-nine years a depression came on. Other people's incomes were curtailed, but his was stable. 'What foresight!' said the town. 'What sagacity!' 'What superb business judgment!' Mr. Jennings' views on the business situation and outlook were eagerly sought. The depression passed. Realty prices advanced immensely. The Jennings lots could have been leased at twice the rental named in the old indenture. The town shook its head sympathetically over poor Mr. Jennings' deplorable shortsightedness."

Woes of a Drummer.

"I'm just a little discouraged with my work," said the tall New York boy who has started out on the road. "I was making my second trip west when I met an old drummer who had been on the road for more than thirty years. He sat with grip between his knees and talked to me.

"'Chuck it, my boy,' he said. 'If there is anything else in the world you can do, do it. Look at my gray hairs. I don't know what it is to have a home. For thirty years I have seen my wife about once in five weeks. I know that I've a wife and children in a flat in New York, but that's all I do know about them. The children have grown up and married, but I have not had time to attend their weddings. My wife has grown gray, too, but she has had the best of it. She has had a home and the children. If there is anything else in the world you can do, my boy,' he repeated, 'quit drumming, and do it.'"

Twice Two.

"Do you really believe two heads are better than one?"

"Give it up, but I know we wouldn't amount to much without foreheads."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Courtesy.

The parvenu stood it till he could stand it no longer.

"James," he cried out piteously, "tell me the worst! You find my table manners execrable!"

But his new butler, bowing first with stately condescension, only replied:

"As a matter of professional courtesy I'll cannot hentertain, much less hexpress, hany hopinion which might seem in hanyway to reflect on my predecessor 'ere."

And he bowed again and was silent.—Puck.

The Wings of Time.

Methuselah was walking in his garden.

"My goodness," he exclaimed suddenly, "there's another flower on that century plant! Why, it seems but yesterday since I plucked a blossom from it."

He walked slowly toward an oak tree 200 years old which he had tenderly raised from an acorn.

"Ah, me," he mused, "how time flies!"—Harper's Weekly.

Shadow Etiquette.

"I saluted the Kaffir chief respectfully and hearty," said the sailor. "Can you imagine my surprise when he give me a kick?

"'Get off my shadder,' he says.

"'Wot?'

"'Get off my shadder.'

"I was standing, by crinus, on his shadder, the shadder of his stomach. I skipped from there to the face. He groaned. When I got on to sunlit ground again he says to me:

"'Didn't you never have no bringin' up? Look at you now, lengthenin' out your shadow longer'n mine. Crouch, consarn you, or I'll warm your hide with this here club.'"

The sailor gave a loud laugh and emptied his glass of milk.

"Them Kaffirs," he said, "regards their shadders as part of themselves. A polite Kaffir would no more walk on another's shadder than a polite American would hit a lady. They have a regular shadder etiquette. You mustn't on no account let your shadder be longer than a superior's. You must crouch to make it smaller, and that there crouch for the purpose of diminishin' the shadder is thought by the Spencerian philosophers—I don't say I think so, mind—to be the origin of the bow."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Much Law, Poor Case.

Among lawyers there is a saying that in the trial of a case an attorney if light on facts must be heavy on law. The other day an attorney was preparing to leave his office in one of the big office buildings to go to the courthouse to try a case. From the shelves of his library he had taken many large law books containing decisions and opinions of higher courts. At intervals a boy went in and out of the door, and each time he bore in his arms a stack of the books, which he carried to an express wagon that stood in the street below. The attorney was to use the books in the courtroom. Another lawyer, who is of southern birth and who always addresses his friends with some army title, watched the boy as he went in and out carrying the law books. Then he dug his hands deep into his trousers pockets and said to the lawyer:

"Well, Ah'll sweah, kunnel, you must have no case at all."—Kansas City Times.

Snow and Rain.

The first man to whom it ever occurred to find out how much rain was represented by a given fall of snow was Alexander Brice of Kirknewton, who in March, 1765, made a simple experiment with the contents of a stone jug driven face downward into over six inches of snow. What he learned was that a greater or less degree of cold or of wind when the snow falls and its "lying a longer or shorter time on the ground" will occasion a difference in the weight and in the quantity of water produced, "but if," he added, "I may trust to the above trials, which I endeavored to perform with care, snow newly fallen, with a moderate gale of wind, freezing cold, will produce a quantity of water equal to one-tenth part of its bulk." So that a fall of snow of ten inches represents a rainfall of one inch.—London Chronicle.

The Adder.

A full grown adder may measure two feet in length and about six inches around the thickest part of its body. Its movements are sluggish, and of course the idea that it is capable of transferring its head from one extremity to the other every six months is due simply to superstition. The fact is that the tail of this snake does not terminate in a point, as with ophidians generally, but is stumpy and resembles the head so much that it is difficult for an observer situated at a distance of a few yards to distinguish the one from the other; hence the story of its being two headed, the fallacy of which no intelligent observer could fail to detect.—Pioneer.

An Event.

"What's the matter? You look as if something extraordinary had happened."

"Something extraordinary has happened. Do you see that street sweeper—the fellow who is stirring things up?"

"Yes. What about him?"

"When he saw me coming a moment ago he stopped and didn't try to choke me with dust and germs."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Of Course He Did.

"If I were nominated for the presidency of the United States," said Mr. Henpeck, "I would"—

"You nominated for president of the United States!" his wife interrupted. "What are you thinking of? You mean if we were nominated, don't you?"

Then he wisely changed the subject.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Quite Sordid.

There was a burglar in the room. The beautiful young lady sleeping there was awakened by the flash of his lantern.

"Let us come to an understanding," she said pleasantly. "Are you the sort of burglar I have met in fiction?"

"I am not, mum," replied the visitor; "I'm the real thing. I hope that silver on your dresser is too."

"Wouldn't do any good to talk to you about your golden haired baby, then?"

"Nope."

"Got a sick wife at home?"

"Nope."

"Worthy man, driven to crime by hunger perhaps?"

"Nope. Just out from me last job."

"Well," concluded the young lady, "I'm disappointed. You're mean to disturb me, and I'm glad that's plated ware."—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

CATARRH

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety, cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, billousness, bad taste, etc. rely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.
For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and oat nothing else, however, need be used but

HOME WRECKED

By Explosion of Dynamite--Mother Killed and Children Injured.

FATHER IS TO BLAME.

Placed The Deadly Stuff in the Oven to Thaw and Went to Work Without Making the Fact Known. Explosion Let go in His Absence

WIFE KILLED TWO CHILDREN INJURED.

Lebanon, February 16.—Mrs. Z ller, the wife of John Zeller, of Annvie, near here, was instantly killed by an explosion of dynamite at her home Friday, and their children, Lydia, aged thirteen years, and Mary, aged five years, were so badly burned and lacerated that there is little hope of their recovery. The house was wrecked. Zeller placed three sticks of dynamite in the stove to thaw and went to work, neglecting to tell his wife that the dynamite was in the oven.

What occurred after Zeller's departure will probably never be known, as neither child has regained consciousness.

The explosion must have been terrific as the flesh was torn from Mrs. Zeller' body in several places and two great holes were blown in her side and back.

Lydia, the elder of the two children, was fearfully cut about the face and body and was terribly burned, her clothing having been ignited by the explosion. Mary had a large gash torn in her back and there are cuts and bruises from her head to her feet. Her clothing also caught fire, and she was badly burned.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Intermediate basket ball team of the Lock Haven Y. M. C. A., was defeated by the Intermediate of the local association in the home gymnasium last evening by the score 50 to 15.

The trustees of the association met in the office of General J. A. Beaver yesterday afternoon to finally decide the matter of raising the roof of the brick office building for the purpose of providing quarters for a second tenant.

In view of the fact that a tenant stood ready to lease the new suite of rooms for a term of years, the improvement was authorized. The rentals from both floors of this building will more than pay the yearly interest on the mortgage carried on the Y. M. C. A. building.

Three events of the Junior gymnasium contest came off last evening, the winners whose names follow, secured the largest number of points in the block, sack and wheelbarrow races.

F. Thomas 1 prize, gymnasium shoes
L. Crissman 2 prize, gymnasium shoes
R. Cole 3 prize, book.

Blue leads the red in the men's membership contest by the score 45 to 35, and orange leads the purple in the boys membership by the score 18½ to 7½.

Deafness CannotbeCured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

For the Daily News.

Many of our young people as well as older ones will remember F. W. Bible, who after attending the High School here went to Park College, graduated there, then studied theology, was licensed to preach; then married, and is now a missionary in China, under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

An extract from a letter received by a friend in Bellefonte may arouse interest in the awful condition of the sufferers from famine in China.

He says "I suppose in one way or another you will hear of the appeals for help in the great famine out here. The area affected is in the two provinces North and West of that in which we live. It is impossible as yet to say what the full extent will be; but the population in that affected area is estimated at ten millions; and before the harvests next June, it is likely that nearly all will have to be fed unless they are to starve. That means that some millions of dollars must come from foreign countries, or men, women and children will by thousands. Even now it is reported that large numbers are committing suicide to avoid the long, painful death by starvation. So you may be sure that the appeal which is made came from a very sore need, and calls for immediate and large response."

I have received and forwarded five dollars ($5) and shall be glad to do more and if any feel like doing something after reading Mr. Bible's letter. I shall be most glad to forward it at once.

Kodol For Indigestion.
Relieves sour stomach, palpitation of the heart. Digests what you eat.

—Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol
For Dyspepsia

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol relieves Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

In bottles only. Two sizes, fifty cents and one dollar.

A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilerating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Perscription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Ways of the Flying Fish.

Flying fish swim in shoals varying in number from a dozen to a hundred or more. They often leave the water at once, darting through the air in the same direction for 200 yards or more, and then descend to the water quickly, rising again and then renewing their flight. Sometimes the dolphin may be seen in rapid pursuit, taking great leaps out of the water and gaining upon his prey, which take shorter and shorter flights, vainly trying to escape, until they sink exhausted. Sometimes the larger sea birds catch flying fish in the air. The question whether the flying fish use their fins at all as wings is not fully decided. The power of flight is limited to the time the fins remain moist.

Where Angels Fear to Tread.

A company of young American tourists visited the home of Beethoven in Bonn and were unrestrained in their expressions of wonder, admiration and approval of the room where the master had lived and worked. They asked many questions about Beethoven, and finally one young lady seated herself at his piano and proceeded, with true American confidence, to play the "Moonlight Sonata," Beethoven's own work, in his own room, on his own piano. Such an interesting combination!

The old caretaker stood there, stern and silent. When the performance was over the young lady turned to the old man and said:

"I suppose many musicians have been here and have played on this instrument?"

"Paderewski was here once, madame"—

"Ah!" she sighed.

"But," continued the faithful guardian, "when some one urged him to play on Beethoven's piano he said, 'No; I am not worthy.'"

There Yet.

Scott—My wife's mother has visited us only once in five years. Mott—That isn't bad. When do you expect her to pay her second visit? Scott—Oh, she hasn't got through her first yet.—New York Telegraph.

Then She Talked.

Reporter—Well, I've interviewed her. Editor—Did she talk without restraint? Reporter—I should say nit! She wouldn't say a word until her husband came in and told her to keep still.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Daniel's Fame.

Deacon Jones—Why was Daniel the most popular man mentioned in the Old Testament? Brother Smith—Because he was lionized.

Curious Blunders.

Some remarkable mistakes in memorials have totally escaped notice until it was too late to rectify them. The spurs on the boots of Cromwell's statue at Westminster abbey, London, are the most interesting feature of the monument, although they generally get no attention at all from sightseers. They are worn upside down. In a painted window on the staircase which leads from the floor of Westminster palace to the committee rooms an inscription on a sword wielded by the "Black Prince" has the words "Prince of Wales." Again, in the fresco depicting the embarkation of the pilgrim fathers in the corridor leading from the outer lobby at St. Stephen's to the house of lords the Mayflower is shown to be hoisting the union jack, a flag which did not come into existence until 250 years after the days of the historic Mayflower.

A "Ringers' Jug."

A beer jug in a belfry is happily somewhat of a rarity in these days. At the beginning of the last century, however, people were not so particular. The ringers' jug at Beccles, in Suffolk, holds six gallons, a sufficiency to sustain the ten weary ringers, though the weight of the bells did exceed six tons. The vessel is made of red earthenware and has three handles, one of which is concealed by the neck. It bears the following inscription in quaint spelling:

"When I am fill'd with liquor strong
Each Man drink once and then ding dong.
Drink not too much to Cloud your Knobs
Least you forget to make the Bobbs.
A gift of John Pattman Beccles." On the reverse side is the maker's name, "Samuel Stringfellow, Potter."—London Strand.

The Scallop.

The scallop can anchor itself as well as any ship. It never fails to drop its anchor on the approach of rough weather. The scallop, lying in its bed of shoal water, foresees a storm in true sailor fashion and at once puts out a tough and elastic little cable from a point near its hinge. This cable it fastens firmly to the nearest rock. It is then secure in the vilest weather. He who wades through scallop haunted shoals as a storm approaches may see the tiny shellfish mooring themselves on all sides with silent bustle.

A Financial Coup.

"You don't mean to say that you loaned Stickles your umbrella?"

"Yes. And it was economy to do it. It saves me the 25 cents a day he used to borrow."

Inaccuracy is the twin brother of dishonesty.—Simmons.

HIDDEN DANGER.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Bellefonte Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of ediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys and cures them permanently. Here's Bellefonte proof.

Mrs. Nancy Davis, of 246 East Logan Street, says: "I suffered a bad fall some years ago when living in Rochester. I thought at first that I had broken my back. I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. I took only a few doses before I began to feel better and when I had continued using them for a while I was thoroughly cured. My back regained its strength and the pain left me. I have had no return of the trouble since."

Nothing will relieve Indigestion, that is not a thorough digestant. Kodol digests what you eat and allows the stomach to rest—recuperate—grow strong again. KODOL is a solution of digestive acids and as nearly as possible approximates the digestive juices that are found in the stomach. KODOL takes the work of digestion off the digestive organs, and while performing this work itself does great assist the stomach to a thorough rest. In addition the ingredients of KODOL are such as to make it a corrective of the highest efficiency and by its action the stomach is restored to its normal activity and power. KODOL is manufactured in strict conformity with the National Pure Food and Drugs Law. Sold by Greens Pharmacy.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Mrs. Dick Barlett is in the hospital for treatment.

—The plastering fell from the ceiling in Miss Snyder's Millinery Store, causing an awful lot of dirt and dust.

—Is it known to the Mayor and Police that gambling is carried on most every Sunday in the Crider Lumber yards?

—Mr. and Mrs. William McClure are rejoicing over the arrival of a little child that came to their home on Tuesday.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lingle and family will move in a day or two from Patton and occupy their beautiful home on Linn street.

—John G. Carson dropped dead at his home at Matternville Thursday morning about 10 o'clock. He was a man about 50 years of age.

—It is said 13 is an unlucky number, but Joseph's popular clerk, Foster Williams who received 13 Valentines don't see it in that light.

—One of our young men, Master Donald Williams, who hustles the News around to your homes, fell on the ice and broke one of his fingers.

—Paul Young a little son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Young was seriously ill during the latter part of the week. The little fellow is much better again.

—The Garman hotel is having some repairs made to their large kitchen in the way of a metalic ceiling. It will be very substantial and very pretty when completed.

—It is very likely that the Young Men's Christian Association Glee club will repeat their entertainment on March 5th a few changes will be made in the program.

—Harry Otto has bought outright from his mother the cigar store and factory under the First National bank so long run by his father and in the future will conduct the same for himself.

—Miss Effie Snyder who has typhoid fever at her home in Jersey Shore is reported no better. Her many friends in Bellefonte are anxiously awaiting for a change for the better.

—A "Weighing" social by the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held at the home of C. C. Shuey on High street, Thursday evening March 7. A fine programme of musical and elocutionary selections will be rendered. Refreshments will be served. All are invited.

—On Monday the Brockerhoff House opened a new register and the first man to sign was a fellow by the name of Smith. Perfectly natural that it would be either a Smith Jones or Brown. During the year 1906 Mr. Ray entertained nearly eleven thousand guests at his hotel. That is feeding a few people.

—W. H. Burrows, railway potal clerk of Bellefonte, Pa. has five single comb brown leghorn pullets commenced laying at less than 7 months old and laid 745 eggs in less than ten monthts, an average of 149 egg per hen. These hens were not selected from the flock but were the only leghorns he had.

—Elmer Garverick, aged 23 years, died at the Williamsport hospital after eight years of suffering from arthiritis deformans, commonly known as ossification. For nearly eight years he had been unable to move a joint in his body and was like a man of stone for that period. The case attracted the attention of physicians from all over the country.

—Peter F. Keichline has leased the ground opposite Darius Waite's implement office on Water street, where the old Toner livery used to be, has torn down the old barn-like building and is building a machine shops for his son, Will Keichline. Will, who a week or two ago accepted a position in Milton, will give up his place there and come home just as soon as his shop is ready, and as he is a good mechanic he no doubt will do a successful business.

—On Thursday morning the county commissioners, C. A. Weaver, John Dunlap and J. G. Bailey accompanied by Boyd A. Musser, of the York bridge company, and John Knisely, contractor of Bellefonte, were in this place examing the site for the new county bridge across Elk creek. The commissioners have promised the town a substantial and handsome bridge, the floor of the bridge to be of concrete and a six-foot side-walk on the northern side. The bridge will be furnished complete by the county and placed in position, but the abutments must be built by the borough. The bridge will be put in place just as soon as the weather will allow the building of the abutments.—Millheim Journal,

—Mrs. Frank Warfield is suffering with a bad attack of the grip.

—W. Harrison Walker, Esq., has been appointed a Notary Public.

—Mrs. Lew Gettig entertained a few friends at her Thomas street home on Thursday evening.

—Rev. Dunning of Osceola preached in the Methodist Episcopal church on Thursday evening.

—Richard Taylor manager of the skating rink is confined to his Howard street home with tonsilitis.

—The Independent Order of Odd Fellows will hold their 61st anniversary and banquet on March 1st.

—The Packer House and the Moescolin Brewery and several residences burned down Monday morning at Sunbury.

—We are pleased to note that Mrs. Jacob Shuey of Lemont is very much improved and is getting well rapidly.

—We are very sorry to announce that Mrs. McSuly is lying seriously ill at her home on Logan street with an attack of pneumonia.

—Friday afternoon the weather was dandy for window cleaning and every store in this neighborhood took advantage of it to.

—Miss Ella Gates Sunday School class cleared $20.00 at their supper held on Valentine Day at the home of W. O. Dougherty on Reynolds Ave.

—George Spangler, of Blanchard, holds the record as a fox hunter in Centre county. So far this winter he has killed thirty foxes and one wild cat.

—Hiram Fetteroff has been appointed to fill the position as watchman at the Centre Co. Bank made vacant by the death of Henry Sampsell.

—Mrs. William Scholl is at the home of her brother, Harrison Kline, near Bellefonte, assisting them in preparing to move from the farm to Bellefonte.

—The Bennett—Moulton repertoire company that played here last week are in Huntingdon this week. Some of the boys of the town seemed smitten with the girls in the company and one fellow was so soft that he followed them to Tyrone.

—A large lamp exploded at the Thomas home on Thomas street Sunday evening and by the strenous work of the boys the flames were put out which sayed one of the prettiest homes in Bellefonte from being burned to the ground.

—In making up the list of Centre county boys who served during the Spanish—American war in 1898 for the Curtin Memorial monument, Major Robt. G. H. Hayes name was omitted. Major Hays was one of the first men who went to the front and worked earnestly and faithfully in the South with the boys who had the fever. He was a lieutenant and assistant surgeon on Col. Burchfield's staff. It seems to bad that his name does not appear with the other soldier's from Old Centre County.

GREAT MASS MEETING TO BE HELD.

Rev. Dr. Scanlon Will Preach Three Times Next Sunday.

The Republican and Democratic parties held their big mass meetings during the early fall and discussed their principals and aired one anothers candidates until each man's character and life was known to every man, woman, and child in Bellefonte. So this coming Sunday Dr. Charles Scanlon one of the greates and most brilliant Temperance orators on the American platform will be in Bellefonte.

The morning, afternoon, and evening will be devoted to this great Temperance work. In response to a letter Dr. Scanlon has said that he wants to be as helpful as possible while here next Sunday. So an afternoon Gospel Temperance Mass Meeting is being arranged by the Ministerium. It is also possible that a union service will be arranged for the evening. The invitation to attend is extended freely to all. To the working men in all walks of life. A special invitation is extended to the Railroad men, Quarry men, Furnace men, to the merchants and their clerks. And also to every farmer living near Bellefonte who can see their way clear to attend. Let everyone turn out and give this man a rousing reception and welcome to Bellefonte. Full announcements will be made in this paper during the week.

A Shooting Tournament.

The best sport in the world is to be a good marksman. Every man and boy should know how to handle a gun and shoot accurately. The best practice a fellow can get is to go into Brown's Shooting Gallery and try your luck. It is true you will not always hit a duck or a rabbit but you have the fun of trying.

Mr. Brown is now offering five prizes to be given away the 1st of April to the persons making the highest scores.

This is the only gallery in town and every evening crowds of young fellows are in there trying their nerve and skill. Shooting at these flying objects in this long room is the best kind of practice for a person who expects to be a hunter. Indeed it wouldn't hurt a great many of the National Guardmen to spruce up a little at Brown's, at any rate get in the contest and see what you can do in the way of winning one of the prizes.
